The Selection Process

The Admissions Committee will invite those applicants whom they consider to be capable of the greatest success in doctoral studies and the anesthesia program for interview. Academic achievement, evidence of sound physical and emotional health, ethical and moral character, and motivation to undertake serious study are essential for graduate school success. Average class size is 15-17 students.

Selection is based on the following criteria:

1. Transcripts and grade point average
2. Quality of clinical experience
3. Evaluation of letters of recommendation from nursing supervisors and nursing school
4. GRE Score
5. Personal interview (by invitation)

If you believe that you have been denied admission because of your race, color, religion, age, gender, national origin, marital status, physical or mental handicap or disability, sexual orientation, or any factor protected by law, you should call 816-404-1127 within 5 working days from the date you receive your denial letter. We will send you the appropriate forms for filing a grievance. Once we have received the completed forms, we will investigate your complaint and advise you of the results.
